

INFORMATION SHEET
Displaced persons from Ukraine – Registration

1. Temporary right of residence for displaced persons

Certain groups of people from Ukraine have a temporary right of residence as displaced persons in Austria. This applies to citizens of Ukraine and refugees recognised in Ukraine or persons with complementary protection who had to leave Ukraine due to the war. This also applies to their family members as well as Ukrainian citizens who were lawfully residing in Austria at the beginning of the war.

These people will receive the residence permit “identity card for displaced persons”. Registration (data collection) is necessary for this. There is no need to make an application for international protection (“asylum application”).

The right of residence is currently valid until 4 March 2028. However, the right of residence will expire if displaced persons from Ukraine leave Austria for a longer time, i.e. if they move to another state. However, short trips are possible without the right of residence expiring.

2. Target groups

1. Citizens of Ukraine residing in Ukraine who had to leave Ukraine due to the armed conflict as of 24 February 2022.

NEW:

The temporary right of residence will only be granted to persons who have fulfilled their military obligations under Ukrainian law. If necessary, this must be proven by appropriate evidence.

Ukrainian citizens who are not liable to military service may nevertheless have military obligations – regardless of their age or sex – e.g. because they have to assume certain tasks to support military activities.

Evidence may be furnished by confirmation of lawful departure from Ukraine – such as a stamp from border control in the passport – or in the form of a certificate confirming exemption from or fulfilment of military obligations. This certificate is issued by the Ukrainian Ministry of Defence and can also be obtained digitally via the “Reserv+” app.

This new rule does not apply to persons who were granted a temporary right of residence in an EU member state before or on 4 August 2026 and have continuously held this status since then.

2. Other third-country nationals or stateless persons with international protection status or comparable national protection status granted before 24 February 2022 under Ukrainian law, who had to leave Ukraine due to the armed conflict as of 24 February 2022. This applies to persons with asylum or complementary protection in Ukraine.
3. Family members of these groups, provided they were residing in Ukraine as family members of one of the persons listed above before 24 February 2022. Above all, this applies to family members who are not Ukrainian citizens or who do not meet one of the other conditions for the right of residence as displaced persons for other reasons. Family members include:
 - Spouses and registered partners
 - Unmarried minor children of persons from the above-mentioned target group (1. and 2.) or of their spouses or registered partners
 - Other close relatives of persons from the target group (1. and 2.) who lived together with them in a household before displacement and who were completely or mainly dependent on them
4. Citizens of Ukraine who were lawfully residing in Austria visa-free or with a visa on 24 February 2022, after the end of the visa-free stay or the expiry of the visa if they cannot return to Ukraine or the state of their residence. Above all, this applies to Ukrainian citizens who were on a trip to Austria at the beginning of the war and lived in Ukraine or another state to which they cannot return. Persons who lived in another state and can return there are not included.
5. Citizens of Ukraine with a valid residence permit in Austria on 24 February 2022, after the end of the period of validity if they cannot return to Ukraine. This only applies to cases where the residence permit has not been renewed. Persons with currently valid residence permits are not included because they are still lawfully residing in Austria.

A further requirement is that the respective person is staying in Austria and there are no reasons for exclusion. In particular, reasons for exclusion include war crimes or crimes against humanity, serious offences and the like.

3. Expiry and issuance of the identity card for displaced persons

The Federal Office for Immigration and Asylum (BFA) issues an identity card for displaced persons to persons who belong to the target groups. For this, it is necessary for you to register:

- An initial registration takes place through the police. This can be done at certain police stations or in special reception or registration centres.
- When you register, your data and the details on your passport or other documents will be recorded. Persons aged 14 and over will undergo an identification process (taking of fingerprints, etc.). There is a form that you are kindly requested to fill in and submit during registration.
- Please take the following with you to registration (if available):
 - Passport
 - Birth certificate, marriage certificate, other civil status documents
 - Other identity documents, e.g. ID card, driving licence, residence permit, etc.
- In the event that all data is completely available to the BFA as a result of the registration by the police, an identity card for displaced persons as a residence permit will be personally delivered to you.

Should any investigative steps still be necessary, you will be invited to an interview before the competent body of the BFA in order to collect any missing data. This may involve cases where e.g. no passport is available. If you are not summoned before the BFA, the identity card for displaced persons will be sent to you at your registered address, to the delivery address that you specified during registration, or to the authorised recipient. You do not need to take any further steps for this. In some cases, it may also be necessary to register your fingerprints again in order to issue the identity card. This is carried out by BFA staff. You may also be required to bring a passport photo to the BFA (if the photo from your passport cannot be used).

There is no need to make an application for asylum. Such an application would be hindered for the duration of the right of residence as a displaced person and it would not be processed.

Note: In Austria, there is an obligation to register your residence. This takes place at the registration office in the municipalities (municipal office). It is important that you register with the registration office and inform the registration office of any change of residence. This is the only way to ensure that the BFA will send the identity card for displaced persons to you or reach you with further enquiries. See also:

Reception: If you are not gainfully employed or only have a low income from gainful employment, or if you are generally in need of assistance, you will receive reception support and services. It includes the provision of accommodation, food and health insurance. Health insurance entitles you to benefits (in kind), e.g. medical assistance, medication and medical aids. If you have private accommodation, you may receive reception support and services in the form of accommodation allowances and meal allowances.

The hotline +43 1 2676 870 9460 has been set up at the Federal Agency for Care and Support Services (BBU) to also furnish information in Ukrainian and Russian. The website can be found at www.bbu.gv.at/ukraine. You can also contact the reception centre in your federal state.
